

CREA

CREA features a minimalist cylinder and a combination of wood and metal. Within its sophisticated simple slender design, the gentle light shining out of the slit brings elegance to the atmosphere. The Tamo ash, which has been used for furniture and flooring for a long time in Japanese history, matches a wide variety of interior design styles. Combining with metal makes it unique and special. It dramatically provides sufficient direct light with perfect distribution over dining tables and kitchen counters, with single fittings or multiple configurations.
