The Calix 170 impresses with its timeless design and clear lines. Its classically shaped reflector sits on a slim, stable frame and provides targeted light throughout the room. Particularly striking is the meticulously detailed joint element with a decorative handle loop, which is not only functional but also a true visual highlight. Whether used as a reading light next to the sofa or as an atmospheric light source in a hotel room, the Calix 170 perfectly combines functionality and style. Various color options allow for harmonious integration into both modern and classic interior design concepts.
